Nervous Prostration

"I suffered so with Nervous Prostration that I thought there was no use trying to get well. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and although skeptical at first, I soon found myself recovering, and am to-day well."

MRS. D. I. JONES,
5800 Broadway, Cleveland, O.

Much sickness is of nervous origin. It's the nerves that make the heart force the blood through the veins, the lungs take in oxygen, the stomach digest food, the liver secrete bile and the kidneys filter the blood. If any of these organs are weak, it is the fault of the nerves through which they get their strength. Dr. Miles' Nervine is a specific for the nerves. It soothes the irritation and assists in the generation of nerve force. Therefore you can hardly miss it if you take Dr. Miles' Nervine when sick. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

Will Plant Alfalfa.

Willard Bros., A. B. and L. L., tell us they are going to plant their island farm, east of town, to alfalfa. The land is exceptionally rich, is not underlaid with hard pan, and will, they believe, produce alfalfa nicely. The soil is deep and rich, and is underlaid with a clay and gravel formation. Their efforts will be watched with intense interest, as many men in this country will put in alfalfa if it can be made to grow here.

The mandamus suit brought by W. E. McClure against Miss Graffin to compel the reinstatement of Carl McClure, a son of W. E. McClure, in the public school, was dismissed in the district court last week, the court holding in effect that it would be very bad policy for courts to set aside or abrogate rules and requirements laid down by school boards and teachers for the government and conduct of schools. The suit was in the name of Carl McClure, by his next friend, W. E. McClure, and the court also held that the suit was not properly brought. While we are not entirely conversant with the case at issue it appears from what we have been able to learn that the pupil refused to deliver a recitation and the principal, Miss Graffin, suspended him from school, at once reporting her action to the board of education, and her action was sustained by the board. The action was brought to compel the reinstatement of the pupil in school, but the court refused to sustain the writ of mandamus, and dismissed the case. It seems from the finding of the court that it is not deemed good policy to set aside rules and requirements made by a board of education or teachers, and in this the court decides wisely. But a case of this kind is a good thing occasionally, as it brings it more forcibly to the attention of the people that discipline is the thing in the management of schools.

Old newspapers, blankets, and everything else that would do to cover up vegetation was pressed into use the fore part of the week. The weather looked very bad for growing vegetation, and it was bad, too.

The merry candidate is abroad in the land, and the way he smiles at one is enough to cause a laugh. But as a rule they are all pretty good fellows, and they are only human. The smile is only a means whereby to accomplish an end.

The high price of chickens has made a lot of incubator business, and all kinds of artificial hens have been put on the market. We want to caution our chicken raising friends right now to be careful and get a good incubator. Remember, there are a lot of very poor ones on the market, and a poor one is very dear at any price.

The price of rhubarb is certainly high enough. We went to buy some the other day and had to pay ten cents a pound for it, a price unheard of before. But there is a big demand for it, and the price will perhaps not be as low as it was last season. It is mighty healthy stuff, by the way, and if people would eat more of it they would be better off. Don't you remember, you old timers, when you use to eat rhubarb root? Don't you remember that your old mother use to have a chunk of it lying around the house and when you got to ailing she would shave off a little of it and give it to you. It is great stuff for the liver, and is just as beneficial when eaten in pies or sauce. Eat plenty of rhubarb, get your liver to working right and you won't be so grouchy.

If there is not a big supply of chickens on hand this summer it will not be the fault of the busy women folks who are setting everything that will stay on a nest. They are using lots of incubators, too. The scandalous high price of chickens the past few months has driven a lot of people into the poultry business, but we are not one who believes the market will be glutted with chickens. The price of hogs and cattle has driven people to eating chickens and eggs, and they have the habit now. Chickens will never, in our opinion, be as cheap again as they have been, and the man or woman who goes into the chicken raising business on the right lines will make money, and it will be comparatively easy money, too.

C. S. ROBERTS, Agent.

Is ready to mail. It will be sent to any person interested in fruit-growing on receipt of 7 cents to cover postage. The Stark Year Book for 1910 represents an entirely new idea in nurserymen's literature—it is a work of art as well as a catalogue of Stark Nursery products. Within its covers are 32 full-page illustrations of fruits and flowers, representing 175 varieties, done in four colors, and exactly reproducing nature. 84 pages are devoted to descriptions, prices, and records.

Stark Delicious, the apple that has revolutionized orchard planting and established a new standard of apple values (selling at $10.00 per bushel box this year); Stark King David, another apple of wondrous quality and merit; Stark King Philip, a hardy black grape of California grape quality, and dozens of the very best things in the horticultural world are fully described, illustrated, and priced. To any one planting one tree or many, of fruits or ornamental, this book is of inestimable value—a horticultural text-book—a guide to proper selection. Stark trees have stood the supreme test of actual planting for 85 years—they are the yard-stick by which all other nursery products are measured—they are the first choice of this country's most successful orchardists. The success of the orchard is dependent on the kind and quality of tree planted. Stark varieties are the best of the best. Our record of 85 years of successful selling is a positive guarantee of tree quality.

Before you decide to buy, send 7 cents for the Stark Year Book—do it today before the edition is exhausted.
